BMA Corp. and Compliance Systems Inc. (CSi) Announce Dynamic Documents in DepositRite

CSi's IntelleDoc Solutions™ Provides Compliance and Documentation Technology for Joint Product

Salt Lake City, UT—February 8, 2010 --BMA Corporation, a specialist in providing integrated banking software and processing solutions, today announced the availability of dynamic deposit documents through its DepositRite product. Fully integrated into the BankRite Core system, DepositRite leverages the comprehensive dynamic documentation system of BMA partner Compliance Systems, Inc. (CSi).

Through CSi's IntelleDoc Solutions,™ DepositRite leverages smart technology that validates accuracy of transaction information, automatically selects the correct documents, and dynamically assembles documents specific to the deposit transaction. This functionality is paired with CSi's Compliance Logic System™ which allows a financial institution to create and maintain their own disclosures for Truth in Savings, Funds Availability, Electronic Funds Transfer, and Privacy. The need for financial institutions to purchase and inventory these disclosures is completely eliminated.

"The expansion of our BankRite Core Suite to include DepositRite comes at a time when our customers are looking to improve overall efficiencies to help control costs while also trying to manage risk," said Gary Matern, President of BMA. "These tightly integrated products save our customers time, makes the process more efficient, and manages risk by ensuring all required documents and disclosures are provided when dealing with an account owner. It's all in one place through one system."

Customers use a single point of entry through BankRite Global that allows them to set up a new customer on the core and seamlessly interface with DepositRite to generate a single document set of deposit documents and required disclosures for that specific customer transaction.

"BMA is a respected provider of banking software and is recognized for their high level of service to their customers," said Dennis Adama, CSi President. "Our joint effort provides BMA customers with access to industry-leading compliance and document technology and a better way to increase productivity and reduce risk."
