

INTEGRA Software Systems Chooses Compliance Systems, Inc. (CSi) as Comprehensive Residential, Consumer, and Commercial Document Partner

Grand Rapids, MI – March 4, 2008 – INTEGRA Software Systems, a longtime leader in the residential mortgage software market, has elected to integrate CSi’s IntelleDoc Solutions™, a comprehensive dynamic documentation system for its bank, credit union, and mortgage lending customers.

Tim Bartek, Senior VP of Sales & Marketing for INTEGRA, states “Our selection of CSi as a key partner was brought about by the need to satisfy those customers that desire a single source for consumer, commercial and residential documents and compliance. INTEGRA’s recent entry into the commercial and consumer lending space created this requirement. Only CSi satisfied that overall need while at the same time providing more functionality, efficiencies and value through their dynamic document technology. By integrating to CSi’s IntelleDoc Solutions™, INTEGRA and our customers will realize significant time and costs savings on an ongoing basis.”

Rick Allen, Senior Vice President of Operations for INTEGRA, adds, “One of the advantages of CSi’s technology is the ability to map our data fields to a single schema. This provides us with the ability to map our existing fields now, and as clients add new documents or business channels, the new documents inherit all the previously mapped information. Many documents will be operational without any new development at all.”

CSi IntelleDoc Solutions™ include a suite of software compliance components incorporating static and dynamic document libraries, automated document selection, customized disclosures (e.g., Home Equity, ARM, etc.), a document customization tool, and compliance support for all states and for all types of lending transactions. Through a carefully engineered joint integration effort, CSi has become a valued compliance documentation provider for INTEGRA’s loan origination system. The result of this successful partnership is a loan origination system that covers all business channels—consumer, commercial and mortgage lending—and continues to earn market acceptance by delivering on the bottom line.

“The lending environment has always been challenged to stay current on the laws and regulations, ensure all variations of lending transactions are properly documented and to proactively manage risk,” said Dennis Adama, President of CSi. “The way we have combined compliance intelligence, data management and documentation technology in the CSi IntelleDoc Solutions™ solves these issues. Additionally, the way INTEGRA has combined our expertise with theirs will result in a powerful system that will truly be a competitive advantage for our mutual customers.”

Kelly Booth, Vice President for CSi adds, “We are very pleased to have INTEGRA as a partner. INTEGRA has been a leading provider of superior software products to the mortgage lending industry for many years. With the addition of consumer and commercial lending to their product mix, INTEGRA is well-positioned for future success and we are glad to be a part of that”.

About INTEGRA Software Systems, LLC

Established in 1996, INTEGRA partners with mortgage lending clients – banks, credit unions, mortgage banks, brokers and other retail and wholesale lenders – to provide each of them a competitive advantage with a loan origination system (LOS) tailored to their specific needs. INTEGRA’s Destiny LOS spans point-of-sale through post-closing and secondary marketing for lenders interested in efficiencies gained from automating every step of their mortgage loan workflow.
